

USE OF CERTIFICATION MARKS

Companies obtaining EN ISO 13485 certification are entitled to use the applicable marks, logos and brands provided by NOTICE. The followings shall be complied with:

NOTICE certified clients have the right to use references to their certificates and NOTICE logos and brand on promotional materials, correspondence and advertisements with the condition to strictly adhere to the scope and location conditions on the certificate.

NOTICE ISO 13485 certified clients shall not make reference to EA MLA, ILAC MRA and IAF MLA. The holder of a certificate granted by NOTICE, may, in accordance with the IAF PL 9 rules, also use the IAF CERTSEARCH digital dynamic mark on its website.

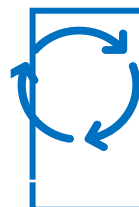

NOTICE EN ISO 13485 certified clients can use the accreditation mark together with NOTICE logo. These clients can only use the combined mark in their letterheads and on promotion materials. Use of the accreditation mark on products and their packaging, or in a way that could be understood as referring to the service provided is prohibited.

SA (Slovenska akreditacija) logo (shown in the following page) cannot be used by NOTICE certified clients.

Logos or references to the management system certificate must not appear on the primary packaging of the product. However, they may be included on outer packaging with appropriate clarification.

Certificates remain valid throughout their certification cycle, as defined on the certificates, provided that surveillance audits are successfully completed. Logo and brand can be used as long as the certificate is valid. If the company's certificate is suspended, canceled or withdrawn, or the accreditation of NOTICE is revoked, the company is required to cease using the logo immediately.

The logos must be used in a manner that ensures integrity, displayed on a contrasting background color that is clearly distinguishable.

The logos must be sized appropriately to ensure that all features are clearly visible and detailed.

NOTICE Logos cannot be used on customer test reports, calibration and inspection reports.

NOTICE Logo shall be used in conjunction with client's information.

The certified clients can only use the certificate, logos and markings in the certification scope. If the certificate is used out of the given scope, the certificate holder will be warned and corrective action will be demanded to correct this nonconformity. This process can be as extensive as making legal appeal.
